CASHIER OF COLUMBIA BANK AND SUPERINTENDENT OF THE TYRRILL SCHOOLS SUICIDED

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, May 24.—R. M. Spruill, who has been for some time cashier of Merchant's and Farmer's Bank, Columbia, Tyrrell county, and at the same time superintendent of the Tyrrell county public schools, committed suicide last night, according to reports just received here, and complications in the affairs of the bank are developing that would indicate the cause of the rash act.

There came to the superintendent of public instruction today from County Treasurer A. L. Walker, of Tyrrell county, a telegram asking that the payment of a warrant by the state for $1,000 for the Tyrrell county school fund that is known to have passed through the hands of County Superintendent Spruill be held up at the state treasury here lest the complications in the manipulations of the bank's finances by the deceased cashier cause the state and the county to lose the $1,000. Investigation showed that this paper has not yet reached Raleigh in the process of collection.

Inquiry at the office of the Corporation Commission developed the fact that the bank was last examined in April when there were found a number of complications in the way of doubtful paper and other conditions that the president and directors undertook to adjust to the satisfaction of the Commission. While the Commission gives out no statement to that effect it is understood that this undertaking has never been completed and it is known that efforts in that direction and the tangle and embarrassment brought about thereby most probably caused the suicide of the cashier.

SPEECHMAKING AT NATIONAL GOOD ROADS CONGRESS.

Birmingham, Ala., May 24.—Improvement of the routes taken by the leading generals, Confederate and Union, during the Civil war campaigns and the construction of a national highway from Chicago to the Gulf of Mexico, were suggested at today's session of the National Good Roads Congress. The former proposition was submitted by Mrs. A. O. Lane and Miss Alma Rittenberry, representing the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The session was taken up largely with speech making. Those who appeared were:

Senator John H. Bankhead, of Alabama, "Federal Control of Roads," Logan Walter Page, director of the federal roads department, "Road Improvement in the South."

Lieut.-Gov. Walter D. Seed, Alabama; J. C. Clair, Chicago, of the Illinois Central Railroad; C. G. Gilbert, secretary of the Memphis-to-Bristol Highway Association; Prof. G. N. Mitchell, Alabama Polytechnic Institute; Jesse Taylor, Jamestown, Ohio, of the Ohio Good Roads Federation; Arthur Hooker, secretary of the National Irrigation Congress, and S. W. McCallie, state geologist of Georgia.

Secretary J. A. Rountree, of the Congress, reported on the organization's work during the past year. During the afternoon the delegates visited Corey, the model industrial town near here.

BOB TAYLOR FOR CHAMP CLARK.

Senator Says Speaker Will Be The Next President.

Washington, May 24.—"Champ Clark will be the next President of the United States," is the prediction which Senator Robert L. Taylor, of Tennessee, made today. Senator Taylor's great popularity as a lecturer and story-teller has taken him into many parts of the country and he feels that this has afforded him unusual facilities for sizing up sentiment among the people.

"I don't believe anybody knows better than I do the wholesome strength of the Missouri with the people in the Middle West, the Far West and the South, which sections I have traversed recently," said the Senator.

"His advancement is inevitable," he continued. "What the Democratic party most needs to insure success at the polls is harmony in the convention which will represent all the States. Champ Clark has proved a master promoter and commander of party harmony. The party will owe him so great a debt of gratitude for this very reason that it will be obliged to hand him the prize. There is no fog about Champ Clark; not the slightest cloud approaches to lower over his home. On the contrary, no single leader has brought more sunshine to Democratic ranks everywhere. And I say, as many another Democrat will be saying, 'More power to him.'"

GOV. KITCHIN MAY NOT FORMALLY AN- NOUCE CANDIDACY

Gov. W. W. Kitchin, who delivered the annual address at the commencement exercises at Salem Female College this morning, will be in the city until tomorrow, when he will leave for Burlington, where he delivers an address at the closing exercises of the graded schools there tomorrow night. While in the city the Governor is the guest of Col. and Mrs. H. Montague, on Cherry street.

It has been understood for some time that Gov. Kitchin would be in the race next year for the United States Senatorship. While he has not made any official announcement, still when seen by a representative of The Sentinel this afternoon the chief executive did not give out the least intimation that he had changed his mind regarding the coming contest, notwithstanding the fact that there are at least two more aspirants for the honor than was perhaps anticipated by the Governor when he first decided to stand for election.

It is understood that Gov. Kitchin is receiving some mighty good news from his friends throughout the state and that they are giving him assurances of their best support when the time for action arrives.

The Governor's attention was called to a sentence which appeared in Tom Paine's correspondence to the Raleigh News and Observer today to the effect that, according to information reaching Washington, Gov. Kitchin, in his formal announcement of his candidacy, would have a criticism of Senator Simmons, Gov. Kitchin replied that he did not now know whether he would issue any formal statement, yet he was emphatic in saying that it was not his purpose to start a fight or make war on anybody and that so far as he was concerned he was hoping for a peaceful and harmonious campaign.

Gov. Kitchin appreciates the manner in which the Democracy of Forsyth county has stood by him in his former campaigns. He says that he has received perhaps two hundred invitations to make addresses this year, but he has been able only to accept about fifteen or twenty.—Winston Sentinel.

PASSENGERS ON BIG CUNARD HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

Special to Telegram.

Queenstown, May 24.—The big Cunarder Ivernia, bound for Liverpool from Boston, carrying 775 passengers, struck "Daunt's" rock today at noon and narrowly escaped sinking. A big hole was torn in the bow of the ship and the forward compartments were flooded with water, this being 25 feet deep. The head was low and the stern so high that the propellers barely touched the water. She managed to crawl into the harbor, anchoring in the Kinloch channel.

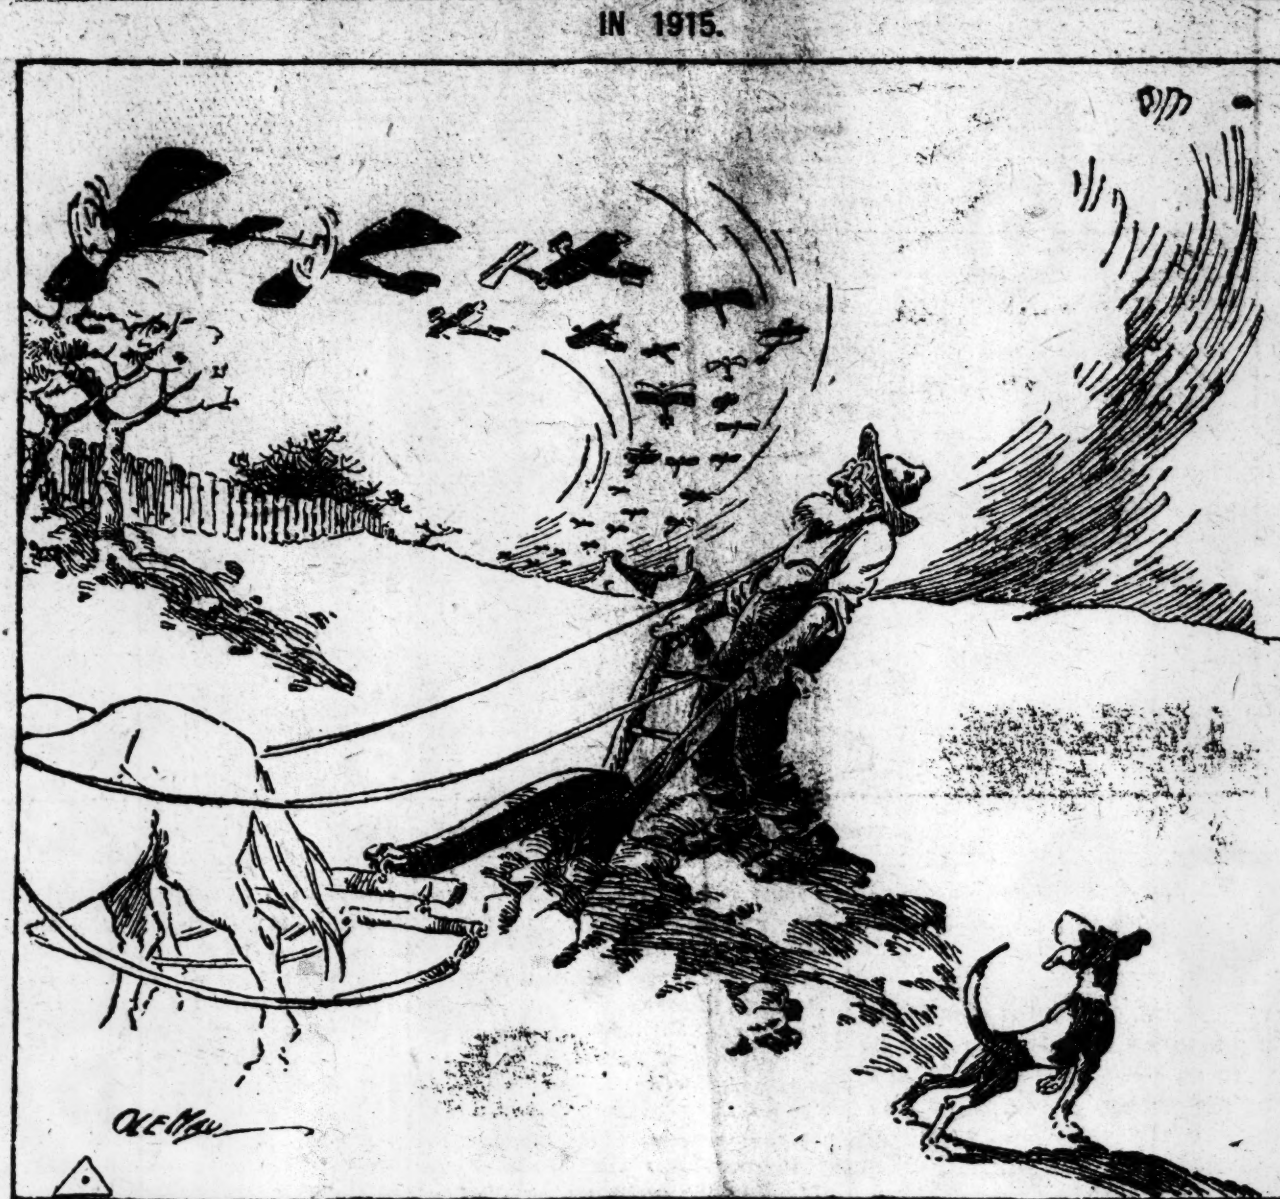

The ship was barely making her way in the fog and when the rock was sighted every effort was made to reverse the engines and bring the ship to a standstill. The vessel struck the rock with a terrific impact.

HAT ON IN CHURCH IS FATAL.

Negro Who Wore it is Dead and Several Others Wounded.

Spartanburg, S. C., May 24.—Henry Baxter, a negro, walked into Rocky Zion church, near Newberry, S. C., Sunday evening with his hat on. Now he is dead and four or five other negroes are wounded as a result of the shooting caused by this lack of respect for the meeting house.

When Baxter was taken to task by a member of the congregation for failing to remove his hat as he entered the church, a quarrel ensued. Then there was an adjournment to the grounds outside, where several pistols got into action and 40 or 50 shots were fired.

JUDGE CONNOR PREPARES FOR TOBACCO CASE

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, May 24.—As a preliminary proceeding to entering upon the actual trial of the famous Ware-Kramer suit against the American Tobacco Company for $1,500,000 damages on June 13 in the Federal Court here United States Judge H. G. Connor has directed that contenting counsel appear June 6 and submit all arguments on pending motions preliminary to the actual trial so that all these may be cleared up before the jury trial comes up. Among the motions to be thus disposed of are that each side present certain books and letter files not yet drawn into the litigation. The depositions taken in this case already constitute a record of four thousand or more typewritten pages and there are numerous exceptions noted that are to be disposed of so far as Judge Connor's rulings are concerned before the trial begins.

HOT RAILS BUCKLE UP.

In Hoop Shape They Bulged and Rise From the Ties.

Phoenixville, Pa., May 24.—As a direct result of the extreme heat today the rails on the Frazer branch of the Pennsylvania railroad buckled at Raction station, and only the timely discovery of the distorted rails by a track-walker prevented a wreck. A passenger train leaving here at 11:46 a. m. was stopped by the track-walker before it struck the buckled rails.

The superintendent of roadway of the Schuylkill division, who visited Raction, declared the condition of the rails to be the most peculiar he had seen in years of railroad experience. The rails, expanding in the intense heat, had bulged, forcing the spikes into the air and causing the rails to assume a hoop shape.

Traffic on the branch was delayed several hours while repairs were made.

R. A. Blaylock Dead at Oak Ridge Home

Special to Telegram.

Oak Ridge, May 24.—R. A. Blaylock, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of this place died Tuesday night at 10 o'clock. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The deceased was for years one of the most progressive farmers in this section of the county. He was the grandfather of Luther Blaylock, of the United States Marshall's office in Greensboro.

The way of the transgressor is hard but smooth.

MORSE AND WALSH ARE DENIED PARDON BY PRESIDENT TAFT

Special to Telegram.

Washington, May 24.—President Taft tonight refused to pardon Charles W. Morse, the New York banker serving a fifteen year term in the federal prison at Atlanta. Morse was convicted in March, 1909, on the charge of misapplication of funds of the National Bank of North America and making false entries in the books of the bank and its reports to the comptroller of the currency.

Banker John R. Walsh, of Chicago, who is serving a five year term in the Leavenworth prison, on conviction of charges similar to those against Morse, was denied a pardon also.

WOMAN AERONAUT NARROWLY ESCAPE HORRIBLE DEATH

Special to Telegram.

Norfolk, Va., May 24.—Mme. De Verona, a young woman aeronaut, narrowly escaped death here this afternoon. She was strapped to a parachute trapeze, preparing to ascend in a balloon at Central Park, when the wind blew the balloon over the gas flame igniting it. The assistant pulled the lifeline, releasing the parachute, the woman falling ten feet uninjured. The balloon rose 3,000 feet and then dropped flaming.

SLAYS HIS WIDOW, ALSO.

Black Hand Bandits Follow Fearsome Woman to Italy.

Mahanoy, City, Pa., May 24.—Across the ocean, into the farthest mountain reaches of Italy Black Hand agents have pursued and slain Mrs. Angelo Esenick, whose husband, a stripping foreman, was mysteriously shot to death at Morea last August. The news of the woman's death reached relatives here today. Like her husband, Mrs. Esenick was shot down from ambush two days after she had received this unsigned note: "We have killed your husband; it is your turn next."

Soon after the tragic death of her husband, which has never been avenged, Mrs. Esenick, fearing for her life, broke up her home in Morea and with her four small children hurried back to Italy. Until the receipt of the note Mrs. Esenick thought she had eluded her enemies and wrote that she was enjoying life in her native country.

Some men look upon laws as things merely to be broken.

DIAZ ASKED TO STICK TO HIS POST; NATIONAL PALACE STONED BY WOMEN

QUARTERS OF POLICE FORCE WILL BE IMPROVED SOON

According to Commissioner of Public Safety E. A. Brown the members of the police force are to soon have as comfortable quarters as can be arranged for in the city hall building. Mr. Brown stated that he had unearthed a great deal of the smell that oozed through the windows and doors of the room the first day it was occupied and as soon as possible the calaboose is to be moved, so the officers will really have comfortable quarters.

Commissioner Brown stated that the patrol wagon was to be done away with and the brick building in which the wagon and patrol horse are at present quartered will be converted into a first class prison, affording about twice the room of the present one. In addition there will be a private room for white women who have to be locked up.

As soon as the calaboose is moved the room in which the cells are located will be renovated and fumigated and an adjoining room alongside will be converted into a bath room. The main office will be renovated and put in fine shape as soon as possible and when the improvements are completed by Commissioner Brown are completed the new quarters will be much more comfortable than the old office.

STEALING ALLOWED IN RAIN

Not Serious Crime to Grab Umbrella on Wet Days, Says Judge.

Chicago, May 24.—Theft of an umbrella when it's raining is not a serious crime, according to Municipal Judge Heap, who today heard the plea of Leslie Kearney, 18 years old, arrested while making his way out of a store with the umbrella.

"It was raining and I wanted to go to the public library," the youth testified. "I had no money, Judge, and I didn't want to get soaked in the rain, so I took the umbrella. Then I was arrested. I'm guilty, Judge."

"Well, you're frank about it," said the Court; "and I'll let you off this time. A man has a sort of a right to steal an umbrella when it's raining and he's penniless. Don't let it happen again, though."

HAMMOND MENTIONED AS RUNNING MATE FOR TAFT IN 1912

Special to Telegram.

Washington, May 24.—Two interesting rumors are current concerning the Republican vice-presidential nomination. One of the rumors is that Taft's intimate friends favor Stimson and that his secretaryship is preliminary. They believe that he would hold the progressives, being strong personally and geographically.

The other report is that John Jay Hammond is Taft's personal choice. Hammond is president of the National League of Republican Clubs, mining expert and capitalist and it is believed that he could make a strong fight. There are few men more intimate with the president. They golf, motor, travel and plan together. It is said now that Hammond's appointment as a special commissioner to the coronation of King George is due in a large measure to Taft's desire to give Hammond prestige and official recognition.

Hailstones in Adirondacks.

Special to Telegram.

Utica, N. Y., May 24.—A tremendous hailstorm covered a large section of the Adirondacks and as a result the valleys are filled with hailstones of various sizes.

MacVeagh to Be Speaker.

Kansas City, May 24.—Franklin MacVeagh, secretary of the treasury, arrived here today and tonight he will address the Missouri and Kansas Bankers' Convention. His subject will be "Banking and Currency Reforms."

Special to Telegram.

Mexico City, May 24.—A mob of two thousand with beautiful young women at its head bearing a photograph of Madero formed in the main Plaza this afternoon at 5:15 o'clock and stoned the national palace, crying "long live Madero; death to Diaz." The guards at the palace retreated inside the closed doors and barred them, the stones falling thick and fast on the doors as they were hurriedly closed. The mob then went to the home of Diaz where they encountered a heavy guard. They stoned the house wherein were Diaz and his wife, but the guard made no attempt to retaliate.

One of the crowds came up Avenida San Francisco shouting as they went. They encountered a squad of 12 police and two officers. These they compelled to dismount and, holding their caps in their hands, shout "viva Madero." About 70 per cent. of the mob were women. The numbers were increased by many men, a larger per cent of whom were not of the poorer class, but business and professional men.

While the crowd was passing the end of Cadenas street in which is the president's residence Ambassador Wilson approached from the other end of the street in an automobile and entered the house.

The demonstration started from the chamber of deputies after they had been in session over an hour and when it became known that the resignations of President Diaz and Vice President Corral would not be presented today. The chamber was crowded to the utmost. After the men left the council chamber a number of men and boys appeared bearing printed sheets declaring that General Diaz has refused to resign.

This was a signal for an outburst of indignation and the crowd took up the cry of "viva Madero" and for a time stood about the chamber shouting and waving their hats. Then appeared a nucleus of the later procession, consisting of several coaches filled with men and boys carrying pictures of Madero. All the business houses were closed and shutters and windows barred.

Today was the time set for Diaz to resign, but a petition signed by five thousand prominent men last night asked him to stick to his post. Diaz has refused to set the date for the farewell to the diplomats and the American Ambassador believes that this indicates that he is not going to resign.

There was fighting this morning at Pueblo, Allixco, Acambaro, San Felipe and other points close to the city. The city is completely cut off from railway communication with the north by the burning of the San Felipe bridge between San Luis Potosi and here on the National Railway by the rebels under Cipriano Navarro. A train on the Mexican railway was wrecked last night between here and Vera Cruz by rebels preparing to prevent Reyes from entering the city.

MONUMENT TO HORSE TO ADORN GOLF COURSE.

Nashville, Tenn., May 24.—In the transfer of 125 acres of the famous Belle Meade farm to the Golf Country Club is included the site of the grave of the famous racer, Enquire, in whose memory a marble shaft has been erected. The horse was owned by Gen. W. H. Jackson. A boulevard will be built and the monuments will be one of the sights of the links.

Made Sixteen Thousand Foot Ascent Against His Will.

Ingstadt, Bavaria, May 24.—An officer of the garrison here had a thrilling ride today when a military captive balloon broke loose from its anchorage. The officer was a novice at ballooning and was unable to manipulate the gas valve.

Finally when the balloon had reached a height of 16,500 feet, the officer clamped to the top of the gas bag and succeeded in wrenching open the valve. Then the balloon began a headlong descent near Munich, which is fifty miles from Ingstadt. As the balloon was nearing the ground the officer jumped into a tree and was only slightly injured.

Relieved of the man's weight, the balloon again ascended and was later found near Innsbruck.

Carnegie Takes Vacation.

New York, May 24.—Andrew Carnegie will begin his annual vacation today. He will sail this morning with Mrs. Carnegie and their daughter on the Oceanic, to spend the summer at Skibo castle, Scotland.

A MEETING OF THE GREATEST IM- PORTANCE.

Tonight at 8:30 in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room in the McAdoo building there will be a meeting of the first order of importance to all citizens of Greensboro. This is a meeting which every member of the Chamber is urged to attend and to which every citizen of Greensboro is invited, whether a member of the Chamber of Commerce or not. It is the meeting called to consider the report of the party of gentlemen who recently made a trip over the route of the proposed railroad from Greensboro to Henderson. The result of the investigations of several of this city's most conservative business men will be embodied in this report and it will place this matter before the people of Greensboro in its true light. The brief talks which several of these gentlemen are expected to make will be worth hearing, as they are loaded with facts and with arguments which mean much to the future of this place.

Every citizen of the city ought to attend this meeting. The Telegram urges the attendance of every citizen who can possibly be there. The new railroad proposition is one in which there is the probability of accomplishing almost limitless good for the commercial and industrial interests of Greensboro. It is the duty of every citizen to throw the force of his voice and influence into the movement for the accomplishment of the end sought.

Remember this meeting—and be present when it is called to order.

PANAMA CANAL MAY BE COMPLET- ED IN 1913.

In the minds of a great many citizens of the country doubt has existed as to whether or not the Panama canal would ever be completed; and many have argued that in case of its ultimate completion, the end could not be expected before another decade or two had passed.
The progress of the work of construction does not confirm these views and opinions. The work is reported to be going forward at a gratifyingly rapid pace, with the prospect that the great ditch will be opened to the shipping of the world in the latter part of the year 1913. The Baltimore Sun is optimistic in regard to the canal, and agrees with the conclusions of Col. Goethals, who expects to complete the work of construction by that date. Of the work already done and the amount of work remaining to complete the undertaking, the Sun says:

"Since Col. George W. Goethals, of
the Army Engineers, took charge of the Panama Canal work, on April 1, 1907,
not much in the way of startling news
has come from the isthmus. Colonel Goethals, it appears, is not given to warring with either his superiors or his subordinates, nor does he employ press
agents to keep the newspapers supplied with affecting articles about himself.
But he seems to be an extremely assiduous digger of dirt all the same, for a modest report, just issued from Washington, show that he has loosed and carted away more than 100,000,000 cubic yards of it in four years. Altogether just 138,000,000 cubic yards has been taken from the big ditch since 1904, and the amount that remains to be removed is less than 44,000,000 yards. In brief,
the canal is three-fourths completed.

"Meanwhile the construction of the locks proceeds apace. A good deal more than half of the concrete is already laid,
and the great Gatun dam is approaching completion. On the Pacific side the breakwater from Balboa to Naos Island
—19,000 yards in length—has reached a point 13,000 yards from shore, and on the Atlantic side the breakwater running out into Limon Bay, from Toro Point, is half done. The huge Culebra cut, despite a number of unforeseen slides, will soon be ready for the water.

Under Mr. Shonts, in 1906-7, but 4,861-895 yards of earth was taken from the cut. Colonel Goethals, in 1907-8, pushed the record up to 11,250,000 yards, and during the fiscal year just closed (the canal year runs from May 1 to May 1)
his men got out 16,000,000 yards. The amount remaining is 21,000,000 yards.
It will be disposed of, in all probability, by September of next year, but Colonel Goethals, with characteristic conservatism, puts the date of completion
another year ahead.

"But even allowing for all sorts of mishaps, it is likely that the last months of 1913 will see the canal open to the shipping of the world. Certain dredging will still remain to be done,
but, as Colonel Goethals points out, this dredging will not interfere with the use of the great ditch by ordinary cargo ships."

DID THE STANDARD OIL DECISION "ESTABLISH THE LAW"?

The Richmond Times-Dispatch announces that its approval of the Supreme Court's decision in the Standard Oil case is based on the fact that the decision "has established the law." We beg leave to disagree with the Times-Dispatch on this point. The decision has had exactly the opposite effect. The decision is based on a construction of the law which cannot be sustained by the language of the statute. In other words, the court has read into the law language which is not in the statute. In a nutshell the decision amounts to this:
The Supreme Court says there are
"reasonable" and "unreasonable" business combinations. The "reasonable"
combinations are good trusts, the "unreasonable" combinations are bad trusts.

The law says that ALL combinations
are unlawful, and make no distinction
as to good or bad trusts.
Therefore the Supreme Court has not established the law, but has rendered
an opinion to the effect that the Standard Oil Company is a bad trust, at the same time making it clear that it holds the opinion that there are good trusts. As there is absolutely no ground for this construction of the statute, we fail to see how the decision establishes the law. The Sherman law can be changed by Congress, repealed or amended. Suppose the Sherman law is repealed? What becomes of the Supreme Court's decision? It remains merely as the opinion of a body of men to the effect that there are good and bad trusts.

The danger in the decision of the Supreme Court was pointed out very clearly in The Telegram the next day after the decision was made public, by Hon.
E. J. Justice of this city. This danger lies in the fact that under the law which the Times-Dispatch says has been "established" by the Supreme Court, it remains for the court to decide which trusts are good and which are bad. This is undoubtedly a state of affairs which will powerfully affect the selection of men for judicial positions if it is allowed to continue. There will be a fight on one side by the trusts to secure the appointment of judges who will regard
all trusts as good and all combinations
in restraint of trade as "reasonable";
and, on the other side, a fight by the people to secure the selection of judges who will hold to the opinion that all trusts are bad and all restraint of trade
is "unreasonable."

The facts in this case are that the Supreme Court has handed down a decision which is not based on the law,
as the law says that ALL combinations in restraint of trade are unlawful. The law does not make any distinction between good and bad trusts. It does not recognize the "reasonableness" of some combinations in restraint of trade and the "unreasonableness" of others.

We fail to see how the Court's decision has "established the law" unless the Supreme Court is a legislative body and has the power to make laws. If that is the case, it may be said to have enacted a statute in the Standard Oil decision; and if it has the power to make laws and to enforce them, the decision may be established as the law of the land.

NEWSPAPER OPINION.

The Coming of Aycock.
Whether he be "Simmonsite," "Kitchinute" or "Clarkite," nobody will begrudge the entrance of the illustrious ex-governor, Charles B. Aycock, into the senatorial race in North Carolina. He has made the official announcement of his candidacy, and North Carolina will see a history-making contest, wherein three political giants and one jurist of distinction will measure swords and battleaxes for the rich prize of the senior senatorship.

Of the quartet of candidates now in the field it may be truthfully said that Charles B. Aycock has fewer enemies than any of them. Throughout the State he has hosts of friends who remember his splendid work in behalf of education in this State when he sat on the gubernatorial chair. As a lawyer, orator, and we might add, politician he has few superiors, if any, in the State,
and he will undoubtedly be heard from
in the senatorial struggle.

It is not expected that there will be any blood-letting between Senator Simmons and ex-Governor Aycock. They have been almost life-long friends, fighting side by side for the constitutional amendment, and standing together for all policies which made for the advancement of Democracy in North Carolina.

Indeed, Mr. Aycock's declaration, as made in his announcement, that he will not wage a campaign for the nomination, would indicate that there is the best of feeling between himself and Senator Simmons. So that, after all,
it might be said that the fight proper
will be waged between Governor Kitchin
and Senator Simmons, for if Judge Clark is to preserve his judicial dignity
he can hardly afford to take part in a political scramble for office. Of course,

he might resign, but that's another question.—Asheville Citizen.

A Change Not Best.

Scarcely ever does one read a happier announcement for public office than the one contained in Hon. Charles B. Ay-cock's recent letter to our venerable townsman, Col. N. B. Whitfield. In a manly, direct and candid manner the ex-governor takes the people of the State into his confidence and declares his willingness to serve them if they should desire him to do so.

That Mr. Aycock would make an admirable United States senator all must readily acknowledge. He has served the people, and the people know and love him. He declares, though, that he will not enter into a scramble for the place,
that he cannot afford to spend his money
in "perfecting an organization" to secure the office, and that if he could afford he would not make the expenditure.

While we have the greatest of admiration for Governor Aycock and fully believe in his fitness for the position
for which he is being pushed, we do not think that the situation demands a new wearer for North Carolina's senatorial toga. Indeed, we believe that the State's best interests demand that Mr.
Simmons, the present incumbent, be returned to finish the work which he has so faithfully pursued at the national capital. He has achieved distinction and high rank, and is recognized as one of the most influential members of the senate. He has been especially active in assisting his fellows in the North Carolina delegation to secure proper development of North Carolina's waterways—and that is an enterprise especially dear to Eastern Carolina's heart.
He has uniformly stood for the "square deal" to each and all of his constituents, and while some of his positions on public questions have, in some instances,
excited criticism, we are yet to find that,
on any important matter, he has gone
astray or that the real facts in the case
have not justified his action as being truly Democratic.

No senator or representative at Washington can become very valuable to his constituents until he has accumulated experience and has won prestige among his associates. Because of his accumulations in this respect Senator Simmons has the advantage of the gentlemen who are now asking for the seat he occupies. And because of his advantage the State would be the loser by a change
just now in the prime of his usefulness
as one of its representatives at Washington.—Kinston Free Press.

Make It Unanimous.

Hon. Chas. B. Aycock has yielded to the entreaties of his friends and admirers from all over the State and announced his candidacy for the United States Senate. Governor Aycock is North Carolina's foremost orator and has written his name high on the scroll of fame as the great educational Governor. Should the majority's choice rest on him for the Senate, all North Carolina, including the women and children, would heartily adopt the motion to make it unanimous.—Webster's Weekly.

The Announcement of Mr. Aycock.

In the announcement of his senatorial candidacy Governor Aycock sets a worthy example, and one that should be emulated, in saying that he has no money
to spend in perfecting an organization to influence the result and would not spend money for that purpose if he had it. The custom of spending money in North Carolina campaigns has grown to an alarming extent and the former Governor does well to inveigh against the evil. All the senatorial candidates have served the people in high position and their records as public servants are well known. Under the circumstances it would be a proper and happy solution of the problem to leave

the matter to the people without undue agitation. The friends of the candidates will, of course, exhort for them,
which is entirely proper if undue and improper criticism of candidates is omitted. The campaign can be conducted so as to eliminate all bitterness.

Speculation as to the result of the senatorial contest, to be determined about 18 months hence, is simply speculation. Of the four candidates Governor Aycock probably enjoys the greatest personal popularity. Personal popularity, however, does not always get a majority of the votes, and the strength of Governor Kitchin and Senator Simmons
is not to be discounted; neither is the strength nor the political sagacity of Judge Clark. Fact is, they are all strong men.—Statesville Landmark.

Playing With Fire.

He was visiting a charming young society lady, and as they sat on either side of the blazing fire there entered his heart a burning desire to say something not merely complimentary, but brilliantly suggestive.

So, after revolving the matter in his mind during a ten minutes' burst of silence, he said:

"Ah, Miss Lillian, why are those fire-tongs so like—like your Frederick?"

Of course, he meant her to give it up,
and then he would say: "Because they glow in your service," or "Because they are prostrate at your feet," or perhaps something even better.

But Miss Lillian did not give it up.
Looking so solemnly demure that that
the clock almost stopped, she inquired:

"Is it because they have two thin legs
and a brass head?"

Then followed another burst of silence,
which lasted until the tea came up.

"How many ducks did you shoot,
Pat?"

"The devil a wan!"

"Weren't there any there?"

"Sure! The lake was full av thim.
But iv'ry time I'd point me gun av wan, d'ye moind, another wan w'd get betwixt me an' him an' spoil me a'm."

FADS OF THE FASHIONS

The hat named the "jam-pot" hat is very stylish again and very becoming to most people. It has a high crown and small brim. It is quite an easy matter to heighten a crown that may be too low by an inch or two to suit
present fashions.

The first thing to do is to remove the crown from the brim and mount it onto a band of buckram that will raise it to the desired height. Replace the crown and conceal the buckram by trimming
the hat with a wide band, plain or draped, of silk or velvet, and add any other trimming required. Much of the style of a hat depends upon the height of the crown.

Turban shapes are in the majority in the showing of straw hats, as is usual at this season, but so great is the variety of line and style in these that no one shape predominates.

Very high, narrow models are among the smartest of the small hats and small shapes are very much to the fore.
Coarse basket weaves with fashionable colors, both plain and mixed, come in all the turban and high crowned shapes,
and as these need only a touch of trimming, a feather, flower, quill or up-
standing bow, are an excellent choice
for a first hat for general wear.

Black hats with striking color contrasts for their narrow brims, or other trimmings often have the crown of lace or transparent straw. Such flowers are much used in wreath and the plaque effects, and hats with straw rims and crown made all of tiny blossoms are well shown.

Popular Coiffures.

There are several styles of hair dressing. For instance, the medieval hair dressing which is parted and brought down over the ears and braided in two plaits. Each one is then wound in a disk over each ear. For evening jewels and metallic ribbon are braided in with the hair.

Then there is the style which was in vogue in the early Victoria period. The parted hair is drawn down and placed at the back of the head quite far out.

A bandeau holds the mass high up
above the nape of neck.

Curls hanging at each side of the head have returned to favor. This style is suitable for the youthful type of face.

The wide, soft undulation is firmly installed in favor.

A psyche knot shows the Grecian tendency.

Above all, your own hair, without the aid of "rats" or rolls, must be allowed to show what a soft natural treatment
will do for you.

A Winning Hazzard.

"Look here, Tompkins," said the proprietor of the billiard saloon to the marker, "you really must be more careful of the chalk. You must keep an eye on the players when they use it."

"Can't 'elp it, sir," replied Tompkins,
with a vacant stare. "I know the gents
wot pockets the chalk, but they're regular customers, and we can't afford to offend them, can we, sir?"

"No, Tompkins, that wouldn't do; but you might give them a gentle hint that we don't give the chalk away."

Tompkins said he would do his best,
and a few days later, on seeing a player
calmly pocket a lump of chalk, he tackled
the culprit.

"Excuse me, sir," he said, "but are you connected with the milk trade in any way?"

"Yes, but what's that to you?" demanded the offender.

"Well," said Tompkins, "I thought you must have something to do with the milk trade, judging by the amount of chalk you carry away. The boss likes enterprise, and he told me to drop you a hint that if you want a bucket of water at any time he'd be quite ready to oblige."

Not What You Thought.

She laid the still white form beside
those which had gone before; no sob,
no sigh, forced its way from her heart,
throbbing as though it would burst.
Suddenly a cry broke the stillness of the place—one single heartbreaking shriek;
then silence, another cry; more silence;
then all silent but for a guttural murmur which seemed to well up from her soul. She left the place. She would lay another egg tomorrow.

One of the physicians at a popular winter health resort was looking over his books one day, comparing his list
of patients.

"I had a great many more patients
last year than I have this," he remarked to his wife. "I wonder where they have all gone to?"

"Well, never mind, dear," she replied. "You know all we can do is to hope for the best."

"I tell you," said Dotty, "I'm no-body's fool!"

"Oh, well, never mind, Dotty, dear,"
said Miss Cynica. "Some day some nice girl will come along and take you."—

GIRL A TRUE SPARTAN

MOST AMAZING TRAGEDY IN ANNALS OF CRIME.

Los Angeles Girl Wants to Die With Foster Father and Forces Him to Shoot Her—Notes Effect of Shots.

Los Angeles.—In one of the most amazing and remarkable tragedies in criminal annals, Miss Eva Bovee, twenty years old, stood at the bedside of her foster father in a ward at the County hospital, in this city, and thrusting a loaded revolver into his hands compelled him to shoot her so that "she might go to heaven with him."

With a Spartan-like indifference, bordering on fanaticism, the girl noted the effect of each shot and ordered the man to keep shooting until she finally dropped to the floor. As a result S. L. Dania, sixty-five years of age, the foster father, is dead from wounds self-inflicted, after shooting his foster daughter. The girl died shortly after being shot.

On April 1 Dania shot and killed his six-year-old daughter, Ledania. He believed at the time that she was about to die from injuries inflicted by George Koerner, with whom he was fighting a pistol duel. As Dania felt he recognized his six-year-old daughter and, believing he was about to die, he said: "I am going to take you with me," and shot and instantly killed the little girl.

Practically the one friend to call upon Dania in the hospital was Miss Bovee, who posed as his foster daughter. She visited him almost every day and during their conversations urged him to carry out his promise to take her with him when he died.

On her last visit she bought a revolver and visited Dania again at the County hospital. She forced the revolver into his hands and stood up for execution. Dania fired once, the bullet inflicting a painful but not fatal injury, striking the girl in the head. With the spirit of a Spartan she remarked, "Shoot again, you didn't hurt me."

The Bovee girl then crossed her hands on her breast and Dania, moving to a better position, fired two shots rapidly. The second shot broke the girl's wrist, the third struck her in the breast. After the girl fell to the floor Dania turned the revolver upon himself, inflicting a throat wound. A fifth shot went wild.

LIMIT PUT ON WOMAN'S LOVE

Warden of San Quentin Prison Fixes
Time at Three Years—Apt to Start Discussion.

Sacramento, Cal.—"The limit of woman's constancy is three years."

This astonishing statement is made by John E. Hoyle, warden of the state prison at San Quentin. It is apt to start a discussion up and down the land—this putting so short a time limit on the love of woman.

"The limit of woman's constancy is about three years," he repeated. "I have been at some pains to get at the facts, and our figures and observations show the three-year limit. When a prisoner is first committed his wife or sweetheart is very attentive. She visits him very often if given the opportunity. Her letters are many."

"But as the months roll on the visits become less and less frequent; the letters fewer and fewer. Then the visits cease and the letters are rare. Next thing we know, in case there has been a marriage, the wife gets her divorce and turns her thoughts upon another man. The sweetheart is of less constancy than the wife."

Hypnotize Yourself.

London.—"Plant your feet firmly and squarely on the ground, throw back your shoulders, fold your arms, and swear in most emphatic terms that you are strong, healthy and well. Do this for a few minutes every evening, and even if this is not how you actually feel, maintain by your physical and mental attitude that it is your condition, and you will soon find that it becomes so, and that you are not really telling lies."

This was the advice given by Dr. J. Stenson Hooker in a lecture on "Posturing and Posing for Health" at the Caxton hotel in connection with the opening of the Simple Life Conference and Exhibition.

"It is wonderful to what extent our state of health can be altered in this way," Dr. Hooker added.

Masks for X-Ray Operators.

Paris.—Garments designed to protect doctors and surgeons from the influence of the X-rays, which cause cruel suffering to those whose skin is often exposed to them, are described in the Presse Medicale by Dr. Paul Auburg. They include a rubber mask with spectacles of a lead glass, a long blouse made of lead, rubber and bismuth, and thick gauntlets of the same materials.

The whole of the head is covered by the mask, which, with its broad nose-piece and spectacles, gives the wearer the appearance of an inquisitor about to operate in a mediaeval torture chamber.

Carries Ashes to Sweden.

New York.—In order to carry out the last wish of her husband, Mrs. Hulda Carlson of South Orange, N. J., sailed the other day for Sweden, carrying with her his ashes. He asked his wife to journey back to Norrping, Sweden, where they came from, and cast the ashes to the winds.

BITTER KANSAS FEUD

MAN ARRESTED FOR MURDER
COMMITTED 20 YEARS AGO.

Friends of Victim Demand Full Justice From Old Man Who Is Near Death—Echo of County Seat War.

Gotebo, Okla.—The arrest of Jim Brennan in this city for killing Col. Sam Wood in the great county seat fight in Stevens county, Kan., 20 years ago, has brought to light a hitherto untold epic. Nearly every man who played a part in its shocking history is gone, but Jim Brennan, broken in health and fortune, and he must fight for his life. Desolation broods over the prairie where once stood the towns of Wooddale and Vorhees, but there are yet in Stevens county men who would fight for Sam Wood and men who would fight for Jim Brennan. The present revival of the old charge is due to the determination of the residents of Stevens county that the law must avenge the notorious crime told on its records.

The war was among the towns of Hugoton, Wooddale and Vorhees. Its most spectacular crime was the Hay Meadow massacre where five men were caught while asleep, formed in line and shot. For this crime six men were convicted and sentenced to death. A new trial was ordered by the United States Supreme court but for some reason it was never called. Colonel Wood was one of the bitterest fighters against Brennan and his gang and on June 22, 1891, he was shot to death by Brennan in Hugoton. To this day the friends of Wood are numerous, powerful and clamoring for justice.

Brennan was released and in 1892, when the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Indian reservation was opened, went to Oklahoma and located in County H, now Washita county, at Cloud Chief. He became a deputy sheriff and was a candidate for appointment as sheriff by Gov. A. J. Seay, governor of Oklahoma territory. The killing of Wood caused Governor Seay to refuse to appoint Brennan.

Scores of men had threatened to kill him at sight, and he lived the life of a hunted man. For years he went armed with two pistols. When he sat in a restaurant he was never near a window and always in the rear of the room with his face toward the door.

For a number of years Brennan has been engaged in stock raising and in the merchandise business in Oklahoma. Brennan is said now to be in poor health, so ill that he is not expected to survive a trial. Though Governor Cruce has honored the requisition of the governor of Kansas for the return of Brennan to Stevens county, Brennan will not be moved until his health has improved. His wife is constantly at his bedside.

ILLINOIS LOSES BIG MARKET

Broomcorn Can Be Raised in Kansas and Oklahoma at Less Cost Than in State of Suckers.

Mattoon, Ill.—Local brokers declare the era of Illinois broomcorn supremacy is at an end and that the palm for production of brush must go hereafter to Kansas, Oklahoma and the great southwest. For 20 years Mattoon has been the broomcorn center of the country, for Coles county has raised a greater amount of the valuable product than any similar sized area in the world.

The excessive cost of production of broomcorn in Illinois as compared to the cost in the new field is given as the reason for the change. Farmers living in Cumberland county banded in an agreement not to raise broomcorn for five years unless dealers would guarantee a price to exceed $120 a ton in advance of planting. To this declaration W. M. Checkley of this city, a prominent broker, replied: "If you cannot raise broomcorn for less than $120 a ton, you had better quit, because the farmers in Kansas and Oklahoma can raise it for less than $100 a ton. The land in those states can be bought for about one quarter of the value of Illinois land. Labor is cheaper and market conditions are becoming equally good. In my opinion, Illinois must cease to raise broomcorn, for it will no longer pay."

Engine Flue Deadly Cudgel.

Altoona, Pa.—As the result of a most unusual accident, David E. Bickel, a Pennsylvania railroad machinist, has died.

A laborer, carrying a locomotive flue on his shoulder in the Juniata shops, stopped to talk to a fellow workman and turned partially around. The flue caught in a rapidly revolving wheel in Bickel's machine, which snatched it off the laborer's shoulder and brought it down on Bickel's head with tremendous force, crushing his skull.

As it is the intention of the post office to distribute the stamps simultaneously all over the British Isles, so they may be on sale everywhere on a determined day, 1,000,000,000 stamps will be necessary to supply the 25,000 post offices of the United Kingdom.

Dried Beet Pulp.
Dried beet pulp is a better food than corn silage and a cheaper food than roots. A dried beet pulp ration will produce 10 per cent more milk than a silage ration. It contains all the milk-making materials of original sugar beets—only the sugar being extracted. It is as palatable and succulent as a vegetable food. Any number of dairymen who are feeding dried beet pulp write us they would not go back to their old silage feed, even if they could get it for nothing. Dried beet pulp loosens up the ration so that it is easily digested. It all comes back to you in the milk pail. It is not a medicine—not a patent food or cure-all, not a mixed feed, but a straight natural vegetable so necessary to keep cows in first-class condition.

Care of the Incubator.

If you use an incubator you must practically sleep with it—that is, you must watch it day and night, and after you have thoroughly learned all that the manufacturer tells you in the directions on the machine you must use your own common sense and comply with the varying conditions of climate. When the youngsters come out of the shell they, too, must be watched every day and be cared for in every detail all of the time. Young chickens cannot be raised by any person who is frequently away from home for long intervals. One must be on the job all the time.

Hints for the Hog Raiser.

If the litters begin to run down in number and size the fault is seldom to be found with the sow, but it generally lies with the sow. More small hogs have probably been marketed in the past two years than ever before during the same time. When a hog reaches 200 pounds in weight it requires extra good care and an expert feeder to continue to lay on flesh at a profit. Too many farmers have an aversion to feeding hogs in cold weather because it is an unpleasant job and sell off their herd early and then when the weather becomes good haul their corn to market.

Contents of Food.

Protein, starch, fat, sugar and fiber are the nutrients that make up foods. Protein is the only one from which muscle and tissue can be made; the others serve to produce heat, energy and fat. Starch and sugar are equal in food value. The fiber in the plant cut green has the same food value as starch—when the plant is mature the fiber becomes largely indigestible, as in starch. Fat serves the same purpose in the animal body as starch; it is more concentrated, having two and one-fourth times as much nutriment in a given weight.

FLOWER IS QUITE POPULAR

Gladiolus is One of Best Summer-Flowering Bulbs—Plant About Same Time as Sweet Corn.

(By LEROY CADY.)
One of the best summer-flowering bulbs is the gladiolus. The bulbs may be purchased from any reliable nurseryman or seedsman for from one to three dollars per hundred, for the commoner mixed bulbs, up to several dollars a dozen for the more fancy bulbs.

They should be planted about the same time sweet corn is planted, and given much the same cultivation as any other garden crop. Plant three to four inches deep, in rows thirty inches apart, and six or eight inches apart in the rows.

The blooms may be cut when the first bloom opens, and the buds will continue to open for a week or two, if placed in water. At the end of the growing season, dig and dry the bulbs until the bulbs and bulbets can easily be separated. Store in any cellar where they will not get wet or dry out. The small bulbets may be saved and sowed like peas in the spring, producing flowering plants in about two years.

TO BUILD POULTRY HOUSES

Can Be Successfully Constructed of Almost Any Material—Three Important Essentials.

A poultry house can be successfully constructed of almost any material as lumber, brick, stone, adobe, sod or cement and even a dugout will answer very well. Many of our fanciers put too much money into the buildings. All that is necessary is that the houses are warm, properly ventilated and well lighted. The wall does not need to be doubled providing the single one is tightly constructed. With a frame house one thickness of good matched lumber such as drop siding, flooring or shiplap is all that is necessary. It is a good plan to build the outside wall of some of the cheaper materials than matched lumber—such as barn siding with battens—and then lath and plaster on the inside or line it with building paper, preferably tar paper. This makes a warm house, which is somewhat more expensive than a single walled but does not present so good an outside appearance. However, for a good cheap house that presents a good appearance, there is nothing better than the single wall, covered with drop siding.

Lots of people who have brains—don't know how to use them.

Anyway, there is nothing monotonous about the weather.

How It Is.
"It takes two to make a quarrel."
"Only one."
"How is that?"
"The third person, you know."

Canada's Mixed Races.
The Bible is already sold in Canada in 90 different tongues, but 17 other races are now asking that editions be printed in their languages. The British Foreign Bible society has published the Scriptures in 424 different tongues, but it seems 17 more must be made to meet the needs of Canada's heterogeneous population.

Red the Popular Color.
Red is the color loved by the Bulgarians and few dresses there are not enriched with its brightness. Their dyes are all their own and the red runs to a dark dullness almost infringing on crimson that is a secret carefully guarded and cannot be replaced outside the mountain fastnesses of the little state itself.

Tragic Dream Came True.
To dream of being mangled by a locomotive and to have that dream come true shortly after he had related it to his companions, was the experience of Wilmer Johnson, of Phoenixville, Pa. While off his engine it began to move, and the enactment of the dream came true, as he jumped for the running board, but missed it and fell under the wheels.

Sympathy for the Little Folk.
Regardless of the duties which crowd into your busy day cultivate sympathy for the little folks—the trivial hurt will be forgotten in your care and the imaginary wrong of school hours will be dimmed by your attention and gracious word of encouragement.

Really Hard Luck.
Four men were sympathizing with each other at an uptown hotel, according to the New York Sun. They were employees pretty well up on the staff list and two of them were assistant managers. They had indorsed checks for acquaintances that they supposed were all right, and, according to the rule, had to make good. "I'm worse stuck than any of you," said the chief engineer. "The check I got stuck on was for $114 and the man who signed it is in jail."

HATBAG FOR THE TRAVELER

Simple and Easy Method That Will Preserve the Much-Prized Headgear.

The season for traveling is once more nearly upon us, and our hats, if not broader, are higher than ever. Of course you may ask the porter for a paper bag to hold your hat on the train. But how often will it fit?

Try, instead, laying the hat on a sheet of stout brown paper, so as to get the correct size. Then make the paper into a large envelope by gathering the two sides in the middle and pasting them down. Slit up the sides about two inches and turn these down to form the closed ends; but before pasting them cut away the inner part of the turned-up ends and snip the corners to give a neat edge.

Do the same with the top of the big, but, of course, do not paste down the flap. Sew to each side of the bag cord or plaited twine handles by which to hold the bag. The whole may be folded and tucked in a corner of your suitcase.

Explosive Neckties.

There are several processes of manufacturing artificial silk which are based on the use of ordinary cellulose, reduced to a plastic condition so that it may be drawn into threads. These are woven into various forms whose chief difference from real silk, to the eye, is that the material is glossier.

All but one of these processes yield a "silk" that is as safe as cotton. The other employs nitro-cellulose, or soluble gun cotton, from which the threads are drawn in ether or alcohol. After the thread has been drawn and is ready for weaving it is supposed to be denitrated. If it is, then it is entirely safe. Otherwise it may be exceedingly dangerous, for it then remains nothing less than gun cotton spun into a fabric.

Small Girl's Hobbie-Skirt.

There is apparently considerable diversity of opinion as regards the correct position for the belt on the small girl's frock. Many of the smartest Little French dresses show the sash in practically normal place, while on other frocks the belt is so far down as to hamper the tiny wearer in her walk almost as absurdly as does the hobbie-skirt of the moment. Inconvenience her elders. The abnormally long-waisted effect obtained by placing the belt almost at the hem of the frock is characteristically quaint on some children, but is not becoming to every type.—Harper's Bazar.

The Boy's Outfit.

Severity must mark the outfit for a small boy. In the morning a Russian blouse suit of natural-colored linen, worn with a wide patent-leather belt, is practical. To complete this dress should be brown boots and stockings. Low shoes and socks are fashionable for all children, leather leggings being worn out-of-doors until the weather is really warm. This fashion should not be kept up after the boy has grown big, any more than he should be forced to keep to his knickerbockers when he is tall enough to wear long trousers.—Harper's Bazar.

Improved Sewing Cabinet.

A sewing cabinet spacious enough to hold everything a seamstress may need in her work, yet which folds up like a screen and can be carried by handles has been invented by a Missourian.

Improved Motorcycles.

By recent changes made in the design of the motorcycle its appearance is greatly improved by making use of the tubes of the frame for the storage of many of the parts which are now hung to it. For this purpose it is necessary to make the tubing a trifle heavier.

King George will wear three robes during the coronation—the royal crimson robe of state, which is worn just before the anointing, the imperial mantle of cloth of gold, and the royal robe of purple velvet, in which he will leave the abbey.

COTTON LETTER TO J. E. LATHAM.

New Orleans, La., May 24.—If yesterday's easiness in our market was to be regarded as a test of the solidity of Liverpool, it certainly proved the case. Futures and spots in the English market this morning showed much better than was generally expected. Old crops were about one lower against 3 to 5 due. Spots unchanged, sales 6,000. New crops were particularly steady and about unchanged against two lower due.

The map shows fair weather in the entire belt, except cloudy in the Carolinas and East Georgia. No rain of consequence in the Carolinas except at Greenwood, S. C. There were some good local showers at several points in Georgia. Indications are for part cloudy, to fair in the West, further rise in temperatures, generally fair in the central States, part cloudy, possibly isolated thundershowers in the Atlantic but no general rain, such as is needed to relieve the Carolinas.

Liverpool eased a little in the last hour on new crops, for the reason that the difference between the markets is now nearly 100 points, which invites straddling by selling in Liverpool and buying in our markets.

The tender of between 3,000 and 5,000 notices against May—caused a ten point break here in old crops soon after the opening but the market was never in danger as leading bulls took the selling and bid for more. New crops held steady around last night's closing prices. The statement showing the movement at the 13 leading interior towns for the half week is very bullish. The present dullness and at times easiness in the market, both in old and new crops, is readily accounted for. Those who need spot cotton are holding off in the hope of a cheaper market on the June bureau report and speculation, for the same reason, is against the market right now. Leading bulls have the situation in old crops well in hand, but apparently think it wise to submit a little to the general belief and expectation of a bearish government bureau and desire to sell in anticipation.

New Bedford Mill Men Think Low Point Has Been Reached.

New York, May 24.—Special advice to the Journal of Commerce says that the feeling prevails among New Bedford mill men that the low point in their industry has been reached, so far as the present period of depression is concerned. They do not expect to see any increase in curtailment during the summer, even though a far more drastic curtailment than any experienced seems probable in some mill centers. Fall River does not share the hopeful feeling of New Bedford, yet there is evidence of growing sentiment that the worst has happened and that improvement, though slow, is probable.

BETTER POULTRY BEING KEPT

People All Over Country Paying More Attention to Pure Bred Stock in Their Chicken Yards.

All over the country people are keeping better poultry than they did a few years ago. They have found that better hens and other poultry pay better with the same amount of feed and care than do mongrels. On some farms mongrel flocks may be found, but on most farms at least good male breeding birds are kept and mated with common stock, so that the ordinary flock now shows distinctive qualities in some direction.

It is rather common now for one farmer to ask another what kind of chickens he is raising just as he would ask about his special breed of hogs or sheep. The average man has come to consider himself not much of a poultry raiser if he cannot at least boast of pure bred roosters of some common strain.

One reason why more farmers do not have better breeds of poultry is because the hatching and brooding season comes in their busiest time of the year. Yet many farmers are beginning to realize that there is good profit in working with their poultry part of the time, as there is with other live stock and with field crops.

They now take some time to feed and care for poultry and to make crops and other things for the requirements of the growing stock. The time is fast coming when most farmers will grow as good quality of poultry as people in other lines of work.

IN THE SHEEPFOLD.

Keep the sheep pens clean. Dirt and foul odors affect sheep quickly. Feed that will keep the bowels open is the best for this time of the year. Wheat bran helps to do it.

Sheep will make good use of about every weed that grows on the farm, except possibly, thistles and mullein, and turn them into first-class mutton. Sheep will dig pretty close to the grass roots in the early spring if you give them a chance. They like a taste of something fresh. If you feed them plenty of turnips this will satisfy their appetites.

It is the farmer who keeps sheep for a number of years that finds them most profitable. Some years they will return a much better profit than others and it is hard to sell and buy at just the right time.

Woman's Influence.

For a woman to be wise and at the same time womanly is to wield a tremendous influence which may be felt for good in the lives of generations to come.—David Starr Jordan.

COMPARE FODDER AND SILAGE

Experiments Carried on at Indiana Station Shows Waste of 20 to 35 Per Cent. in Former.

Frequently one hears the complaint that the hard work incident to filling a silo far outbalances the superiority of ensilage over dry fodder. They claim that dry fodder is good enough and that although the cattle do not eat all of it they eat that which contains the most nourishment. It is a readily conceded fact that there will be waste in connection with fodder even in its best form.

The Indiana experiment station has shown that this waste varies from twenty to thirty-five per cent. The same authority tells us that cattle will consume all of the silage if it is not fed in excessive quantities. Further than this, the silage goes to them in the shape that provides a succulent feed most nearly supplementing the condition of pasture. It is generally accepted that the dairy cow does best when upon fresh grass. Granted that this is the case, the more nearly your can produce fresh grass conditions the better will be your returns and the more profitable dairying will be.

After all, when you come to figure the work of shocking-corn, drawing it to the shredder, putting the grain in the crib and shredded fodder in the mow, there is little difference between the work necessary for filling the silo and getting the dry feed ready for feeding.

There is another point to be taken into consideration and that is the fact that the grain in the silage is all ready for feeding without grinding. If the grain is to be fed in connection with the shredded fodder, it will be necessary to grind or chop it at least. This task is saved by the silo.

A Way to Slip In.

NORTH STATE CAPITAL NEWS

Special to Telegram. Raleigh, May 24.—The Raleigh School Committee has passed an order prohibiting the attendance of any child in the public schools of the city unless there has been vaccination with results satisfactory to the city physician. The appearance of two cases of smallpox in the schools a few weeks ago brought about this order. At the same time the authorities have determined to keep rigid smallpox quarantine of smallpox cases and persons exposed as in the case of the recent report of the State health requiring quarantine, a change that was brought about by the State Department of Health on the much criticised ground that vaccination is the proper preventive of the spread of smallpox and that quarantine is an expensive provision for the few who willfully stand against being vaccinated.

The movement for the reorganization of the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce Thursday night there is the greatest interest being manifested. It looks as though there will be no trouble about running the membership of the reorganized organization up to the 500 that has been set as the minimum. The plan now is to make the membership $5 and $10 and provide also for contributing members in addition. Among the names being suggested for the organization are Raleigh Progressive League, Greater Raleigh Club. There are also many who express opposition to changing the name from Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

At a session of the building committee for the A. & M. College Y. M. C. A. building just held steps were taken to get under way very soon now the work of erecting the $40,000 building which is to be located in the southwestern section of the college grounds near the animal husbandry building that the State Department of Agriculture is to provide under provisions of an act of the recent Legislature at a cost of $30,000.

There are 175 public high schools in North Carolina employing probably more than 600 teachers and it is for the filling of these positions as teachers that the examinations are called for each of the county seats in the state July 13 and 14 to be held by the county superintendents, the questions to be prepared by the State Board of Examiners. There is to be at the same time examinations for the five year public school certificates provided by law for teachers generally to avoid the necessity of annual examinations.

For the commencement exercises of the Raleigh High School Friday a special feature will be the awarding of two gold medals given by the Junior Order United American Mechanics of Raleigh for the best papers on North Carolina history prepared by members of the seventh grade. The presentations will be made by Walter Clark, Jr.

J. A. Giles, former assistant district attorney and now postmaster of Durham, here on business connected with the Federal Court, says that in his opinion ex-Governor Aycock can, with an aggressive campaign carry Durham county for the United States senatorship over Governor Kitchin. He believes that if Gov. Aycock's health improves so that he can take a free hand in the campaigning next year, even though he adheres to his present avowed purpose of making no speeches for his own immediate candidacy, he will be a sure winner. His view is that neither Senator Simmons nor Judge Clark will be very formidable in the contest if Aycock develops into an aggressive candidate. He looks for the storm-center to be around Kitchin and Aycock.

Dr. Robert P. Pell, President of Converse College, delivered the address today for the graduating exercises in connection with the commencement of Peace Institute. The Influence of Educated Womanhood was his theme and the address was an especially able one. The eight young ladies of the graduating class received their diplomas and the Murphy gold medal for the best paper on Southern history was awarded to Miss Myrtle King, of this city, the presentation being by Rev. Hight C. Moore, editor of the Biblical Recorder.

In the Federal Court this morning Isaac Alston and Tim Hatch, both colored, were convicted of blocking in Chatham county. There is in progress the trial of J. L. Bower, on the charge of using the mails for the purpose of defrauding. The accused made a practice of ordering furniture and other goods from various parts of the country to be paid for on the installment plan and making away with the goods. He ordered under numerous aliases and operated principally from Rosemary, Halifax county, Wilmington and Norfolk.

Hard to Obtain Radium. London's radium institute is finding it hard to obtain the five and one-half grams of radium needed in its equipment for therapeutic work. The firm which undertook to supply that amount is unable to live up to its contract. The institute is to open in October.

Japanese Banks in China. Japanese banking facilities in China are good now, but are to be made larger and still better. In anticipation of the older banking interests are doubling their capital and embarking in new banking lines.

For Moving Pictures. The taking and exhibiting of moving pictures has been greatly improved by the use of the gyroscopic. This steadies the tripod while the exposure of the film is being made and lessens the vibration while it is being projected on the sheet.

Get Free Transportation. Railroads carry postal clerks "dead-head," and this free transportation to Uncle Sam's servants is figured by the carriers to be worth a million dollars a year. The roads are subject to damages to injuries received on trains by the postal clerks.

For Radium Baths. At St. Joachimsthal, Bohemia, where the Austrian government has its radium laboratory, a large bathing establishment is being erected for baths in the radio-active water taken from the pitchblende mine there.

Natural Inference. A New York newspaper chronicles the arrival in that city of an American boy who speaks no English. It is inferred that the little chap converses habitually in the baseball dialect.

Trunk Coverings of Sealskin. The skin of the common harbor or marble seal is still used to some extent in Norway for trunk coverings. This seal is also found on the coasts of the United States, especially on the Pacific side.

How Weak Women

May Be Made Strong at Small Expense and no Risk.

There are hundreds of women in this vicinity, weak, thin, run-down, tired out and nervous. Such women need Vinol just as much as did Mrs. Jane Pepper, 2307 Howard street, San Francisco, Cal., who says:

"I have used Vinol for some time with particularly gratifying results. I was run-down, weak and debilitated, and my appetite was gone. After taking several bottles of Vinol I found my condition greatly improved, and do not hesitate to recommend Vinol to anyone similarly affected." (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

Vinol is not a secret nostrum, but a delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil which will create an appetite, tone up the digestive organs, make pure blood and create strength.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Fariss-Klutz Drug Co., Greensboro, N. C.

JUST TRY A TEN CENT BOX OF 'CASCARETS'

Salts, Calomel and Cathartic Pills Are Violent—They Act on the Bowels As Pepper Acts in the Nostrils.

We all need a laxative sometimes. How often we need it depends entirely on how we live. If we exercise largely and eat the right food, we need a laxative only occasionally. But if we live indoors, and get too little laxative effect in our food, we may need to get it quite frequently in some other way.

Nobody can doubt the need for a laxative. The only question is: Which one is the best? and that isn't a question now. Cascarets are known to embody the only laxative which acts in a gentle and natural way. Castor oil merely greases the bowels. Cathartics and salts, acting as pepper acts in the nostrils, flush the bowels with fluids. But those fluids are digestive juices, and we will lack them tomorrow if we waste them today.

Cascarets alone cause the muscles of the bowels to act the same as some foods will do. Carry them with you. Take one when you need it. You will then enjoy all the good effects of keeping the bowels clean. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. The price is 10 cents per box.

FASHIONS OF THE MOMENT.

BRIDAL dresses are much worn, Easter being responsible for this state of affairs whose truth is vouched for by the latest and most agreeable statistics officially issued, writes our London fashion correspondent.

There is a notable change in the fashion of frocks for the bride, the diaphanous train being banished from her most serious regard, while the straight, long, narrow dress of satin tightly folded round the figure with most of its trimming confined to the upper portion of the corsage, and with silver tassels or rosettes to hold a drapery below the knees, is more generally favored. As well as satin there is also brocade, and many choose this with interwoven patterns of silver, while a few venture upon gold designs. Supple, soft and thin are adjectives well deserved by the newest satins, and it is easy to imagine that these lend themselves amiably to the tunic form of dress which wraps the figure either in straight lines or across from left side to right knee.

A somewhat unusual wedding gown of white satin meteor with a silver lily upon it was fringed with silver and crossed over a petticoat of plain white satin, the train being of very moderate length, while the veil of real lace was worn above a wreath of silver lilies and myrtle, and the bodice was filled to the neck with lace laid over very fine and transparent silver tissue. Silver shoes completed the effect, while a silver-bound prayer-book took the place of the bridal bouquet of convention. Wedding dresses entirely made of lace are a revival deserving consideration from those who can afford them, but when elevated to such honor the lace should be real and of the most superb description, Brussels and Limerick under their best aspects being alike acceptable; and the foundation of the lace wedding dress must be well draped with chiffon or very fine net. Silver net, traced with mother-of-pearl and silver must be written down amongst luxurious possibilities for wedding gowns.

Satin trains are very narrow, their tails being of the mermaid order of shape, and these are most attractive when hand-embroidered on the extreme edge, no frilling of chiffon or net being allowed beneath. Wider trains look well with an embroidered device at one corner, and the lace or chiffon train may well be hemmed with white satin ribbon.

The tulle veil sewn with a fine silver cord remains in supreme favor, and the wise subject the tulle to some special process which renders it entirely limp, for under these circumstances it is most definitely becoming. The process is known as "wringing," and is adopted with signal success for white crepe fabrics, which do their duty on the stage, for gowns labeled "Classic."

The most popular material for the going-away gown just now is blue serge, brides seeming to imagine that this clad they may escape the pride or ignominy of detection, and they supplement the blue serge dress when the journey is long and the purse not short with wraps of squirrel or mole-skin. Other acceptable coats are of coarse ribbed serge interwoven with plain cloth lining, the lining being used for cuffs and collar, dark and light blue being much patronized, as they should be in this merry April time of boat-racing. The turban is adopted instead of the large picture hat, so becoming and so inconvenient. All brides depart in turbans, the best of these now being of dark chip trimmed either with a rosette of beads or a single flower or a couple of ostrich quills specially prepared to look as if they had been out in the rain. A wing may be used, but wings are not very much in evidence, flowers and flat plumes being supreme on the latest millinery. News comes from abroad of Leghorns covered with lilac and pink ribbons, while here we see the Tagal of our special fancy gay with hollyhocks and stock, and very decorative these flowers are under their artificial aspect.

We are treating the three-quarter coat of our last year's delight with much contempt; every model now appears with a short jacket, the rule being to trim this only at the base of the back and front, leaving the portions over the hips undecorated, while the sleeves are small. Broad braids and velvet collars are much in vogue, but in the very near future it is rumored we shall abandon the coat and skirt altogether and give our best attention to the dress, the bodice and skirt being made of like stuff with a turn-down collar at the neck of finest embroidery.

Notwithstanding this report I see much evidence in the blouse departments of the various establishments that we shall remain faithful to our earlier love, and again I observe that the white hand-embroidered shirt with insertions of the finest Irish lace pleads for the favor it so well deserves to receive, and that there are many new printed foulards and chiffons dedicated to the odd bodice, while neckties of divers descriptions hang in every window, mostly showing beaded tassels or embroidered ends, or stripes of multi-colored ribbon of Oriental design.

This reminds me that there has been a great importation of Japanese crepe cotton, and the like is well suited to the summer frock, and even better suited to the bedroom dressing gown; indeed, for this latter purpose it is unequalled, for it comes up smiling after the machinations of the severest laundress, and if hemmed and faced with pale-colored washing silk it may be specially attractive.

A kimono dressing-gown of cotton crepe is within the reach of most of us, since it may be bought for about $1.50, and the additions of silk facings can be achieved for about 50 cents by the help of skillful and industrious fingers. Japanese cotton crepe also makes extremely pretty petticoats tight-fitting to the knees, with a broad kilt beyond and one heading threaded with ribbon to hem this, and another to join this to its skirt.

We sometimes wear undershirts in spite of the many allurements of knickers of spun silk and Milanese silk gathered becomingly into an elastic garter below the knee.

Talking of garters, reminds me that I have seen a special pair of alluring gold elastic garters, very wide, and completing a very fine quality pair of black silk stockings. Gold garters should certainly be a distinguishing feature of coronation year. Everything seems to be a distinguishing feature except the plausible possibilities of economy if we remain in town and play our part bravely in all the pomp and circumstance.

In anticipation of the necessity for arriving at great results with little means, I propose that the home-worker should devote herself to the jeweling and beading of any oddment of black and gold lace that she may possess. Under-sleeves and kimono tops of lace well jeweled, are expensive to acquire when hand-embroidered, and extremely cheap to make, while undoubtedly they must be reckoned amongst effective decorations for evening wear. A day-dress of dark blue charmeuse, which has already done duty for one season, I have just seen brought to a worthy revival by a vest of black and gold lace with the design traced with small pearls and small green and gold beads bought at an Oriental warehouse.

My sketch shows a design which will, I hope, please you, and which, if you copy it carefully, will, I think, ensure your having a very dainty and distinctive muslin dress. This crocheted lace you can use for the collar and the cuffs of the undersleeve, while, if you have sufficient left over them, it would be pretty to band it about the under bodice, and there thread it through with ribbons of the faintest possible pink. On the underskirt, too, you could, with advantage, introduce an encircling band of the roseate ribbon, finishing it off with a fairly tied bow at the right side as little details such as these will make your dress distinctly—and delightfully—different from the merely ordinary white muslin. Then, for outward trimming, I would advise, instead of the suggested ribbon threading, a sash of wide and soft satin ribbon, for whose arrangement I would refer you to the sketch, a little tie bow to match being a final and pretty addition.

CHANGING THE SUM

"Then I am to understand that you are unwilling to give your consent to my marriage to Rose?" demanded Archer as he rose.

"I have told you that I am determined that my daughter shall marry one who is able to support her in the style to which she is accustomed. You have told me that you have an income slightly less than my daughter's dress allowance. I presume you are capable of making the simple arithmetical computation that two and two make four."

"I suppose I could," assented Archer. "The trouble is that there is another example on my mental slate. That is that one taken from one leaves nothing."

"I fail to see the application," was the cold response.

"It's this way," explained Archer, taking his seat again. "If you take Rose from me you leave me nothing to hope for. Now do you get the idea?"

"More romantic nonsense," was the impatient reply. "You will soon find some young woman in your own station of life who will occupy your thoughts to the exclusion of my daughter."

"Station in life," echoed Archer with a laugh. "It seems to me that your father and my grandfather were in the same station of life. You happened to make money and my father didn't. That's all. Rose is willing to get along on what I earn. We are not asking you to support us. Her happiness should mean something to you."

"It does," agreed Sidney Wright. "It is for that reason that I insist that she shall not have to go through the inferno of economy that was necessary to my own younger days."

"I think that she'd rather have me than a red automobile and Paris frocks," said Archer, rising again. "Just think over that example, Mr. Wright. One minus one equals naught. You can't forget it."

Archer slipped out of the office and Wright turned once more to his desk. He was doing what was best for his daughter. Rose would thank him some day, when she knew life better.

He picked up a paper but he could not concentrate his attention upon it because that absurd example kept ringing through his brain. It was later than usual when he left the office, because the jingle would cling to his memory and keep him back in his work. He thought the ride home in the open air would drive it from his brain, but the horses seemed to tread out the sum with their hoof beats on the macadam. It was like the old "Punch, brothers, punch with care," that he recalled back in the '70s.

Rose's red eyes told that she had seen or heard from Archer, but she said nothing and Wright did not open the subject. More than ever the girl reminded him of her mother and he remembered how happy they had been in those early days before the sudden growth of the city had taken within its limits the Wright farm and rendered building lots as valuable as acres had been before. They had been happy enough with each other, but the change was changing. Money was necessary to comfort, and he would see that Rose married some one who could support her in the style to which she was accustomed. A four-room flat was the best Archer could offer.

Still the example kept flashing through his mind. "One minus one equals naught." It danced before his eyes as he read the evening paper and the more he tried to put the memory away the more insistent it became. It was the last thing in his thoughts that night and the first thing he recalled the next morning. In his sleep he had dreamed of gigantic figures, huge ones and monster ciphers.

He took a trolley to the office but the flatted wheels ground out the same monotonous refrain and when he went to lunch he called first upon his physician.

"Just a little tired feeling," explained the doctor when the trouble was explained with no reference to the origin of the sum. "If I were you I'd run out of town for a few days and forget business worries for a while."

He pocketed the fee and escorted Wright to the door, watching him go down the street with a heavy tread that was very unlike Sidney Wright. "Some business worry," he said to himself as he turned back to his own neglected lunch. "Wright needs to be careful or he will have a breakdown."

Wright hailed the idea of a trip with pleasure. It would take him out of sight of Rose's reproachful eyes, but that night in the sleeper the grinding of the wheels beat time to the incessant repetition of the one minus one nor was it any better next day at the winter resort.

Wright was thoroughly scared. Change of scene brought him no relief and rest was out of the question. For two days he grew worse and worse and at last his tired nerves broke under the strain. For months his worry over certain pending deals had weakened his nervous system. This was the last straw. As a last resort he went over to the telegraph office in the lobby of the hotel and filled out a form. The clerk looked puzzled as he read the message for it ran:

"Change your infernal formula to read one plus one makes one. You have my consent."

Then Sidney Wright went upstairs to get the first night's rest he had enjoyed since Archer had left his office.

His Telephone Sweetheart

According to the rules and regulations of the telephone company, an operator has no right to listen to conversations over the wires in her charge, but sometimes Edna could not help overhearing snatches of conversation when she tested to see whether some one in one of the booths was still talking. Naturally, too, she became interested in the young man who always called one address uptown.

His first name was Frank, that much she knew, and she knew also that he worked in the big office building in which she operated the public station switchboard. Most offices had their own wires and the work was light, so gradually she began to take especial interest in Frank and his calls.

Her own lonely little life contained no romance and she entered heart and soul into this stranger's love affair. Every day on his way in from lunch and again in the evening he called up "Dearest." It was the only name he ever used, and Edna wished that sometime some one might talk to her like that, whether it was over the wire or face to face. She hoped it might be some one like Frank, with laughing, brown eyes and a kindly smile that seemed perpetual, and her hungry heart took to itself the tender message she heard over the wire, when she deliberately cut in.

She had some share of his visits, for he had always a pleasant smile and a "good afternoon" for her, but she wanted more. She used to whisper very softly her own answers to his tender messages and she was genuinely distressed when, some months later, the messages were discontinued. She still looked for his pleasant greeting as he passed her desk and wondered that he should take his disappointment so well. She sometimes planned to call up the old number and pretend that it was a mistaken call just to see if the girl was still there.

Then there were other times when she was selfishly glad that the calls had stopped, for she was jealous of his telephone sweetheart and now occasionally he stopped for a word of chat with her. Then, one afternoon there came the call. She recognized the voice instantly and her generous spirit rose superior to her selfish jealousy and without thinking she laughed into the receiver.

"I'm so glad you're back," she cried, then the voice at the other end recalled her to her duty. For the first time he knew his last name, for the caller asked that Mr. Frank Howard be sent for and gave the number of his room.

Presently he came down in the elevator, his face beaming with gladness, and Edna fought down a desire to listen. She wanted to know that he had won back his telephone sweetheart and yet she could not bear to learn the fact.

Howard came out of the booth with an odd look upon his face. There was no one there beside the girl and he leaned against the desk.

"What did you mean by saying that you were glad?" he demanded curiously. Edna's face grew red.

"Did she say that?" she asked. Howard nodded.

"She wanted to know what you were glad about. She thought at first she had the wrong number."

"I was glad that she had come back," explained the girl. Somehow those brown eyes compelled the truth. "You didn't call her for so long I knew that you had quarreled and I was glad that you were going to be happy again."

"Been scenting a romance?" he said with a smile. "She's been my sweetheart ever since I was old enough to love anyone. She's been out of town. Just got back and wanted to tell me."

"I'll bet you're glad." It was not a brilliant remark, but it was the best Edna could do. Howard smiled.

"I bet I am," he agreed. "You see I don't go home until late and she's all alone, so I call her up to cheer her."

"Then you're married?" asked Edna in dismay. Howard shook his head.

"That's my mother," he said with a laugh. "She's the best sweetheart a man ever had. I want you to meet her some time. The night law class comes to an end next week, and after that I want to take you up to see her."

"Me? What for?" Edna's eyes grew large.

"I've been telling her a lot about you," explained Howard. "She said before she went away that she wanted to meet you when she came back and I told her that I would try and get you to come up. Will you come?"

"Sure," said Edna, feeling her conversational limitations, but too startled to give expression to her feelings. "I can tell from her voice that she's an awfully nice person. You learn to tell voices when you hear so many of them over the wire."

"I am glad you like her," said Howard simply, "for I want you to like us both. Do you think you will?"

"You mean—Edna did not complete the sentence, but Howard understood.

"Just that," he agreed.

"I guess I do—now," confessed the girl, "because I was awfully jealous of your telephone sweetheart."

A Setback.

He—Don't you like all kinds of birds.

She—No, I don't. I hate a jay.

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trifle with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.—take the advice received and be well.

"Supper Ready"

When you get back to camp, tired and hungry, you do not want to spend the evening getting supper ready. You want a stove you can start up in a minute—that will cook quickly and well.

For camp, houseboat or bungalow, a New Perfection Oil Cook-stove is the ideal cooking device. It is ready for use in a moment. It saves all the trouble of cutting wood and getting in coal. It does not overheat or make dirt in a kitchen; there are no ashes nor smoke. It requires less attention and cooks better than any other range.

Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners, with legs, turquoise blue enameled chimneys. Hand-painted finished throughout. The 2- and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without a cabinet top, which is fitted with drop shelves, towel racks, etc. Dealers everywhere; or write for descriptive circular to the nearest agency of the Standard Oil Company (Incorporated).

The Housekeeper's Hands

(By CONSTANCE CARRUTHERS.)

I want to give a few hints for those who have to do housework on how to take care of the hands. I think it is hardly necessary for me to remind you that on all occasions, except when working with water, to wear a pair of large, strong gloves, made either of kid or of chamois leather. An old pair of your father's will do nicely, only make sure there are no holes in them.

If you have ironing to do do not forget the gloves; they will prevent your hands blistering, and keep them from getting red and shiny.

You should have two pairs of gloves going at the same time—one pair for doing up the grates and another pair for cleaner work.

There is a certain kind of glove sold now, made of rubber, which may be used when you are washing dishes or anything except clothes. If, however, you find these clumsy to work with, just use your uncovered hands and remember afterwards to give them a thorough cleansing in warm water with plenty of good soap.

If you have some blouses or other garments to wash out, you will find after the process that your hands are all wrinkled and dried up—in fact, very unpleasant indeed to look at. The hot water has robbed the hands of their natural oil; you must take artificial means of restoring it.

The best way is to dip them in pure olive oil, rubbing as much in as the skin will absorb. Then dust all over them some fine oatmeal. This will not only bring back the natural gloss of a well-kept hand, but make the hands soft and white.

After paring fruit which leaves a stain on the fingers pass the stained parts through the fumes of a sulphur candle, which will speedily eradicate them. Some stains will be effectually removed by rubbing a cut lemon over them.

Always keep a bottle of lemon juice and rose water beside you in the kitchen, and when your hands are looking unduly red and rough rub a little of the lotion into them.

Use equal quantities of each ingredient and mix them well up together before using.

The lemon juice acts as a whitener to the skin, and is wonderful in its effects. Take care of the hands while you are doing needlework, too, and do not allow the skin of your forefingers to become all ragged and unsightly through pricking it with your needle. Use a finger cap while you sew.

There is really no excuse for houseworkers who allow their hands to get unsightly. A little care is all that is necessary to keep the hands from becoming rough, red and disfigured with fruit and vegetable stains.

Trousers that bag at the knees do not always indicate a praying man.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CONVENTION OF NORTH CAROLINA GOOD ROADS ASSOCIATION

Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt Issues an Address in regard to Meeting in Winston-Salem, June 13th And 14th--Some Results of Good Roads Movement in This State.

(By JOSEPH HYDE PRATT.)
The annual convention of the North Carolina Good Roads Association will be held at Winston-Salem, June 13 and 14. The past fiscal year of 1910-11 has perhaps been one of the most important in its life. The Association has been very active in trying to mold public opinion in favor of progressive road legislation, and, while no laws of State-wide importance were enacted, a great many local bills for counties and townships were passed, which will undoubtedly enable the counties which take advantage of increased revenue from a special tax or bond issue to greatly increase their mileage of good roads. One of the principal undertakings of the North Carolina Good Roads Association during the past year has been the organization in the various counties of county associations. An arrangement was made by which the members of the county associations could become members of the State Association and also receive a year's subscription to Southern Good Roads. As a result of this work thirty-five county associations have been formed in the following counties: Anson, Buncombe, Burke, Carteret, Catawba, Chatham, Columbus, Craven, Cumberland, Duplin, Forsyth, Granville, Guilford, Halifax, Harnett, Johnson, Lee, Lenoir, Macon, Madison, Mecklenburg, Montgomery, Moore, Orange, Pender, Person, Perquimans, Randolph, Richmond, Robeson, Rockingham, Union, Wake, Wayne, and Yadkin. Through these associations the doctrine of good roads has been spread far and wide throughout the State.

In addition to the above good roads association has been formed in Chapel Hill Township, Davidson County, known as the Holly Grove Good Roads and Agricultural Association; also the Charlotte-Wilmington Highway Association, etc. A large attendance from all these associations is expected and it is hoped that this meeting of the State Association will prove a well-spring of enthusiasm to the local organizations so that the various delegates and members will each go back to his particular locality with renewed determination and purposeful vigor to carry forward the effort to educate all of our people not only to a realization of the necessity for good roads, but to the crystallization of public opinion to the point of being willing to pay for them. A program is being prepared which will undoubtedly be full of interest to those attending, variations from the regular program being a question box, and reports for about forty county Good Roads Associations.

The past year's work of the North Carolina Good Roads Association has been very successful in the number of associations formed in the various counties with the consequent broadening of the activities and influence of the State Association through these county organizations; and in the large amount of literature distributed by the State Association in co-operation with the Geological Survey. A circular relating to road drags has brought to the attention of a great many people the real value of this implement and educated them to the use of it. Circulars relating to certain suggested legislation for the creation of a State Highway Department, engineering assistance, use of convicts in public road construction, and State securities for county road bonds were printed and widely distributed. The singular indifference, however, shown by the General Assembly of 1911 to all matters of State-wide importance is a matter of much regret, particularly with regard to road legislation, as more progressive legislation along this line has been markedly indicated by the press as expressing the opinion of the people of the State and by the large number of requests that are constantly being received by the State Geologist for engineering assistance and advice with regard to the location, construction and maintenance of roads.

The North Carolina Good Roads Association has done everything in its power to show the people the necessity for good roads and the remedy for bad roads. It is now the task of this association to continue this work among the weaker counties, in the hopes of gradually bringing them to the point of not only desiring good roads, but of being willing to pay for them. In this work the stronger counties, stronger because of their progress in well constructed roads, not only serve as examples of what can be done, but in many instances these counties have shown a disposition to lend a helping hand to pull their weaker neighbors out of the mud.

The headquarters of the association will be at the Hotel Zinzendorf where special rates have been arranged for members, delegates and their friends. Delegates to the meetings of the North Carolina Good Roads Association include all members of the State Association, county road commissioners of all the counties of the State, mayors of municipalities, and delegates at large appointed by chairmen of board of county commissioners, mayors of towns and cities, and presidents of local clubs and business associations. A most cordial invitation is extended to all who are interested in the promotion of good roads to attend the meetings of the association.

For further information address the secretary of the Association at Chapel Hill, N. C.

Do Ghosts Haunt Swamps?

No, Never. Its foolish to fear a fancied evil, when there are real and deadly perils to guard against in swamps and marshes, bayous, and lowlands. These are the malaria germs that cause ague, chills and fever, weakness, aches in the bones and muscles and may induce deadly typhoid. But Electric Bitters destroys and casts out these vicious germs from the blood. "Three bottles drove all the malaria from my system," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. WARNING TO RAILROAD MEN.

E. S. Bacon, 11 East St., Bath, Me., sends out this warning to railroad men: "As conductor on the railroad, my work caused a chronic inflammation of the kidneys, and I was miserable and all played out. THE KITCHEN

Good Sweet Biscuits.

Ingredients: One and a half ounces of butter, six ounces of flour, two and a half ounces of castor sugar, a teaspoonful of baking powder, and an egg.

Method: Rub the butter into the flour, then add baking powder, making a hole in the middle of flour, and put in the sugar, then mix the egg with sugar. When well mixed gradually knead in the flour with the hand, and put on floured board and roll out thin; cut into shapes, sprinkle with a sugar, put on greased tin, and bake a few minutes in a moderate oven. No moisture required.

Cheese Straws.

Mix two ounces of grated Parmesan cheese, two ounces of fresh butter, two ounces of flour, one ounce of Cheddar cheese, and the yoke of an egg into a stiff paste.

Flavor the mixture with cayenne, salt, and a very little pounded mace (if liked). Roll this out very thinly, cut into fingers about four inches long and half an inch wide. Bake in a quick oven for a few minutes and serve cold.

Serve with boiled, broiled or planked fish of any sort, or such small fried fish as smelts.

She Obeyed His Orders.

The chief was cross that morning and was venting his wrath on the pretty young lady who manipulated the typewriter.

"Everything is in confusion on my desk," he said testily. "It always is."

"You insist that I don't want anything disturbed there," she responded meekly.

"Well, I don't wish my papers disturbed, but I don't want this sheet of postage stamps left there."

"Where shall I put them?" she inquired demurely, as she took them up.

"Don't ask so many questions," he snapped. "Put them anywhere out of my sight."

"Very well, sir," she cooed as softly as a dove.

And linking them with her pretty red tongue she stuck the sheet on his bald head and walked out to seek a new situation.

DON'T EXPERIMENT

You Will Make No Mistake If You Follow This Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys. If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are all symptoms of kidney trouble, and you should seek a remedy which is known to act on the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has cured many stubborn cases in this vicinity.

Can Greensboro residents demand further proof than that contained in the following testimonial?

W. H. Newson, Lakeside St., Burlington, N. C., says: "I noticed that my kidneys were disordered about a year ago. The kidney secretions became unnatural, then my back began to bother me, making it hard for me to attend to my work. I used many remedies, but without success, until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. The results both surprised and delighted me. My system was soon rid of kidney complaint and there has never been a return attack."

Algebra to Be Made Into Poetry.
It is reported that a French teacher has invented a system for teaching algebra in poetry. About fifty-five years ago there was an educational system in vogue by which a considerable share of the academic curriculum was set to music and sung by the teachers and classes. Even the multiplication table was one of the songs, with the five column as a chorus, sung to the tune of "Yankee Doodle."—American Educational Review.

Stenography 2,000 Years Ago.
It seems incredible, but it can be proved, already in the olden times there were stenographers who took down the speeches made in the Roman senate or in public. They were called notarii and we find a place in Suetonius where Augustus is angry because the stenographers reported the speech of Caesar for Metellus in a very imperfect manner.

Fashions in Bulgaria.
Bulgaria believes in fringes, and they are over all with the rare exceptions when the undershirt, always of the best of white linen, may be scalloped at the bottom and even then the fringe effect is used in the over tunic, for the gathering of the many threads suggests to the wearer the numbers of their nations, as is their peculiar red dyed reminder of their blood, and the flowers, and grains, and fruits, embroidered on their gowns represent their industry.

New Variety of Burglar.
Flatbush awoke the other morning to find, to its surprise, that there is one type of burglar which has never been branded and labeled. Heretofore it was supposed that a specimen of every form of burglar was on file at headquarters, but no record was found of the burglar who skins the silverware and cash and confines himself to cold cream, talcum powder and military brushes.—New York Herald.

Checking Motion of Ship.
In actual practice the rolling of ships in the sea has been reduced from 11 per cent. to 2 per cent. by the invention of Herr Frhm of Hamburg. His system makes use of water tanks extending through the hold transversely from one side of the boat to the other and the passage of the water from one side of the boat to the other effectually checks the motion of the boat.

LONG HITS IN NINTH LOST GAME FOR THE PATRIOTS

Musicians Took Yesterday's Contest by Score of Three And Two.

Spartanburg, S. C., May 24.—This was the prettiest game of the season on the local grounds and was a pitchers' battle in spite of the fact hits were rather numerous. The long hits of the locals won the game in the ninth with none out. Walker was there with the stick getting a three-bagger and two singles out of 3 times up. The only error was a muffed foul and didn't count in the result.

TWINS WON EASILY FROM CROSS' HORNETS IN ONESIDED GAME

Winston-Salem, May 24.—Swindell had the Hornets at his mercy this afternoon and the Twins won hands down, 7 to 1. Charlotte got two punk hits and one run on a wild throw. This wild throw was the only error of the Twins while the three of the Hornets were particularly aggravating.

Cross for the visitors played almost the entire game, getting seven put-outs and six assists to his credit. One of the latter was a brilliant one-hand stop of a grounder hit over second. For the Twins the playing of the whole infield was perfect, with the honors going to Yates who knocked down a hit with one hand and passed it to O'Halloran to Shumaker for the prettiest double play of the season.

Shiesley pitched common ball and the locals hit him seemingly whenever they cared to. Malcolmson threw into the grounds in his attempts to keep the Twins from stealing. Garman made a couple of rotten errors and the whole Charlotte team with the exception of its manager seems to be on the blink.

CAROLINA BOY TO N. Y. AMERICANS.

The friends and baseball public in general will be interested to know that Mr. Frank Cooper, who played star ball for Trinity College for the past three years, has accepted a proposition from the New York Americans and will report at once. "Coop," as he is known to the baseball world, was chosen head, and shoulders above all others, as "All Southern" center fielder. He led the Trinity team in batting with a grand average of .417, besides carrying off the laurels in fielding and base running. In 27 games he had a total of 27 stolen bases to his credit—a remarkable record. It is hard for a youngster to break into a game this late in the season and land a permanent berth, but Cooper has the credentials and should give some one a run for an outfield position on the team. —Charlotte Chronicle.

DIAMOND DUST

Where They Play Today.
Greensboro at Spartanburg.
Charlotte at Winston-Salem.
Greenville at Anderson.

Wouldn't do to win 'em all.
If we won every time, we would soon break up the league.

Since we must lose a few occasionally, would just as soon Spartanburg and Anderson would get them as anyone.

Fact of the matter is, we think that it is time the Musicians and Electricians were allowed something to bring them up.

When you cast your optics over the score you will note with pleasure that the Patriots were the only team that played an errorless game yesterday.

It would have been better for us if rain had struck Greensboro instead of Greenville.—Charlotte Chronicle.

The Twins are not one bit more courteous to their guests, the Hornets, than were the Patriots. The poor stingy things deserve kinder treatment.

The Spartan fans were kept on the anxious seat until the last run was made in the ninth inning.

The baseball scores on the window of King's cigar store yesterday afternoon drew out many of the fans, and the close score held them until the last.

The Spartans will be here the first three days of next week, and we will even up scores with them, as the Patriots did on the occasion of the first visit of the Musicians to the Gate City.

Got enough hits to win the game, but hang it they didn't come at the right time, and incidentally it might be remarked that is what Greensboro pays Morrissey for.—Charlotte Chronicle.

It is not out of place here to remark that Umpire O'Brien is about the fairest, coolest and best all-round umpire seen here in a long while. He is a good judge of balls and strikes—the weakness of many umpires.

Lindley Park To Open.

Lindley Park will be thrown open to the public on the night of June 5, the amusement feature to be under the supervision of the Public Service Company.

A. EDGAR COX DIES AFTER ILLNESS OF THREE MONTHS.

A. Edgar Cox, the nineteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Cox, died yesterday morning at 8 o'clock at the family residence, 330 North Green street, following an illness of several months. Death was due to heart disease.

The funeral will be held from the late residence this morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Melton Clark. The interment will be in Green Hill cemetery. The deceased was of a quiet nature and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. At the time of his last illness he was connected with the fire department.

CARPENTER HURT BY A FALLING TIMBER

While walking alongside the new court house annex on which he was employed as a carpenter W. A. Temple was struck in the side by a timber thrown from the second story window yesterday afternoon and as a result is in St. Leo's Hospital with two broken ribs.

Mr. Temple was walking along the west side of the building when a negro mason who was working on the second story threw a piece of plank out of the window, not seeing Mr. Temple below. Fellow workmen rushed to the scene to find him semi-unconscious. Physicians were hurriedly summoned and after a cursory examination the injured man was hurried to St. Leo's Hospital for treatment. It is not believed that his injuries will prove fatal.

MUCH EXCITEMENT OVER FALL OF HORSE.

Quite a little excitement and a very effective blockade of traffic were caused yesterday about 6:30 o'clock by the fall of a horse on South Elm street. As Mrs. H. J. Thurman, accompanied by her sister and little girl, were driving by the Benbow Arcade the horse suddenly slipped on the wet pavement and fell heavily. Bystanders quickly loosened the harness and attempted to right the fallen animal.

This feat, however, was very difficult and a large crowd gathered before the horse, refusing to rise for either persuasion or blows, was lifted by several men and forced to stand. Much excitement ensued when two horses in the jam that followed the blocking of the street became violent and attempted to run away, but they, too, were finally quieted. Neither Mrs. Thurman nor her companions were hurt.

To members of Chamber of Commerce: There will be a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce tonight in the offices of the Chamber, fifth floor McAdoo building, at 8:30 o'clock, to hear the report of the committee which investigated the route of the proposed new railroad from Greensboro to Henderson, and to take further steps looking to the building of this much needed road.

All citizens interested in the welfare of Greensboro, and especially in this railroad proposition, are invited to attend this meeting.

R. C. HOOD, President
C. C. McLEAN, Secretary.

Bible Class Meeting.

Sale Confirmed.

In United States Court yesterday Judge Boyd, sitting in bankruptcy, signed an order confirming the sale of the Naomi Falls Manufacturing Company. Capt. J. E. Gilmer, of Winston-Salem, was the purchaser, the sale having been made some days ago. Capt. Gilmer will continue to operate the mill.

Brought Two Prisoners Down.

Police Officer H. O. Hayworth, of High Point, yesterday brought to the city two prisoners, one for the workhouse and one for the roads. Dee Pritchett, an escapee from the workhouse, turned up in High Point Tuesday night and was at once taken into custody. He will now complete his sentence. James Gilchrist was brought down to serve a four months sentence on the roads for larceny.

DRUM CORPS COMING TO GREENSBORO NEXT WEEK.

The Charlotte Drum Corps which has had a busy season thus far, following a journey to New Bern, and later their part taken in the program of the firemen's tournament, has another date for June 2 and 3 in Greensboro.

The members of the Drum Corps go to the Gate City next month, the occasion being the gathering of the U. C. T. The Drum Corps is making a big hit as usual, with their handsome and attractive uniforms, and in their well executed and difficult drills, they are sought after many times as a drawing card at any general gathering or reunion.—Charlotte Chronicle.

PASTORS AND LAYMEN WILL MEET SOON

For the purpose of considering the Laymen's Missionary Movement and the plan for a complete working of the committees in which the Laymen's conventions are held a meeting of the pastors of Guilford county, together with a lay representative from each church will be held in Greensboro in the near future. It is quite probable that this meeting will be called for June 8. The idea is to arouse interest in the work of the laymen in order that the county campaign will be more successful.

"Hello" Equipment.

To do the hello work last year there were more than 285,000 miles of pole lines. There were more than five and a half million miles of pole wire and a half million miles of underground wire and nearly twenty-five thousand miles of submarine wire—total miles of wire, 11,642,212. The increase for the year was nearly a million and a quarter miles.

Important Alaskan Industry.

Before and After.

When a girl is engaged to a man she believes him when he tells her he would love to have her walk on him with her tiny feet; after she is married to him she would be satisfied to have him willing to put her rubbers on her without acting as if it were killing him.

Operators Held to Account.

In France the operators of aeroplanes are held responsible for damage done to persons or property when coming to the earth. In two cases such operators have been found guilty of homicide and punished, although the punishment was not as great as that for other forms of the same crime.

They Knew—the Little Dears!

With reference to Sir Almroth Wright's opinion that, from a hygienic point of view, washing is an evil, it is interesting to note that children have always shown a wonderful instinct in this respect.

Will Inherit at Sixty-Five.

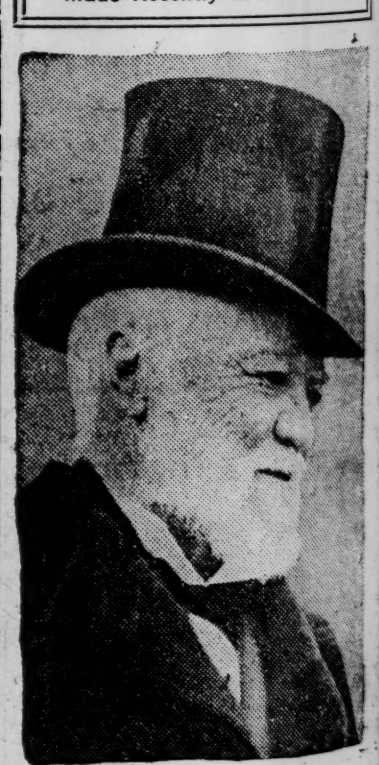

The will of Mrs. Mary Olmstead of Brooklyn, filed in the surrogate's office in Kings county recently, makes a provision that none of the legatees are to receive their share of the estate until they reach the age of sixty-five years, except in the case of the two grandchildren, who will receive their share when they become thirty-five years of age.
